

THE SO-CALLED "GRUNDY MACHINE"

John Smoyer, 3d, President of Bristol Borough Council, trying to help along his candidacy for re-election in the Sixth Ward, last week told a Philadelphia reporter that "years of rule—or misrule—by the Grundy machine" had left Bristol financially unable to cope with an influx of newcomers to this area.

This was an irresponsible, slanderous statement, which Mr. Smoyer could not document in a thousand years. It is an outrageous libel against the good names and records of some of the most distinguished gentlemen and women who ever made Bristol their home.

Let's look briefly into the record of those thus loosely grouped by Mr. Smoyer as being the members of a sort of political gang.

The great issue in Bristol is the future of the Borough's water plant, worth millions, owned outright by the community, more than adequate for its own needs, but the constant target for greedy outside interests which figure they could make a fortune out of it if they could ever get their fingers on it. That can happen only when and if some gullible local figure or group so far forget Bristol's interests that they trade control of the water system away for ulterior motives.

What is the history of the water system? Everyone knows that it is one of the principal contributions of the half century of Republican administrations which were in control here until Mr. Smoyer and his associates took over.

If there is anything which shows the trademark of the so-called "Grundy machine," it is the water works.

Back in the early years of this century, the water supply in Bristol, then in the hands of a private water company, went from bad to frightful. It was quite inadequate for fire protection. What was worse, the water, being then pumped directly from the river and put untreated in the mains, was a constant health menace. Periodically the community suffered epidemics. Loss of time among working people ran as high as 20 per cent.

This was all brought to a focus by the late Miss Anna B. Landreth, who wrote out a petition to the water company, asking it to look into the matter of whether the water was contaminated. This petition was signed by a great many Bristol citizens, submitted to the company—and got a brush-off.

Does Mr. Smoyer think that Miss Landreth was one of the cogs in his so-called "Grundy machine," which he charges with ruining this community?

The Burgess of Bristol at that time was the late Joseph DeBenneville Abbott, an eminent physician and scientist. In the wave of indignation in the Borough over the fact that Miss Landreth's protests were ignored, he took the lead and made tests of his own which quickly verified the suspicion that the water desperately needed purification before being served to the public.

If, as Mr. Smoyer pretends to believe, there was a "Grundy gang" raiding Bristol, was Dr. Abbott one of the gangsters?

The demand for Bristol to take charge of the water plant and run it right gained quick momentum. One of those who moved into the forefront was the late Henry E. Ancker, an outstanding financier, who produced the financial program whereby the borough could buy and operate the water works. Another was a brilliant young lawyer, the late Senator Howard I. James, who conceived the legal arguments to win for the Borough permission to proceed with what was then almost completely an innovation in Pennsylvania—borough ownership of a public utility.

All these were prime movers in the successful undertaking of giving Bristol, first, its own water plant, and, later, its sewage system. If there has been a "Grundy machine," they were the ringleaders. How about it, John Smoyer—are these the ones you had in mind when you told the Philadelphia reporter, in effect, that gangster politicians had been wasting the community's resources?

Early in the waterworks affair, Bristol hired the services of the Boardman engineering firm. Virtually every step taken in four decades and a half was taken on their recommendation. Even when Mr. Smoyer came into power at the municipal building he found that he could do no better than retain the Boardman concern as engineer. Surely he doesn't consider either this

REHABILITATION OF VETERANS DISCUSSED

Major Verzi Tells Serosis of Activities at Valley Forge Hospital

AVERAGE AGE IS 18½

LANGHORNE, Nov. 3—Major Martin A. Verzi, of the welfare department, Valley Forge Hospital, Phoenixville, appeared before members of Langhorne Serosis, Thursday afternoon, in the local library. The meeting was in charge of the welfare committee of the local women's club, Mrs. John R. Montgomery, chairman.

"Rehabilitation of Veterans at Valley Forge," was the subject of Major Verzi. He informed that the average age of the 1600 patients in the hospital is 18½ years, most of them being Korean war veterans, and only 20% being married. Of that number 400 are neuro-psychiatric with 250 being in closed wards; and 180 are tuberculosis patients. There is authorization for 300 bed capacity for "T. B." patients, "but this will probably go to 500," the speaker added. The total paraplegics is 120.

The Major informed that although the army provides all basic needs, such as beds, medicine, nurses and hospital care, the welfare department feels that a great aid toward complete recovery is a "touch of hominess," such as attractive drapes, flowers, and so on. "The welfare department at Valley Forge Hospital is outstanding as compared to other army hospitals."

He added there are at least 120 television sets, with at least one in every ward. There is four-channel radio hospital distribution system, with many individual radios in the wards.

"OUR SCHOOLS AND DEMOCRACY," TITLE OF CLUB MESSAGE

"Essential Pupils Experience . . . Living Example of Practice of Democracy"

BY MARION E. PECK

Vocalist at The Travel Club Session is Miss Arcenia Guzman

"Our Schools and Democracy" was the subject capably discussed yesterday afternoon by Miss Marion E. Peck, Hulmeville, social studies teacher, and member of the guidance department of Bristol high school, when she appeared at the meeting of The Travel Club.

The program was outlined by Mrs. Warren P. Snyder, chairman, and members of the education committee of the club. The guest speaker was introduced to members gathered in the club home by Ms. Paul V. Forster.

In part, Miss Peck had this to say: "Our schools are as democratic as the people who make up the school, community and nation's population. We, the parents and teachers of youth, have the privilege as well as the grave responsibility of helping to mold the lives of our future citizens. Whether these citizens continue to believe in the high standards of American democracy rests on our shoulders."

"Democratic ideals begin not with the first grade of school, but with the first day of life. The very fact that an infant has the feeling of being loved and later of being wanted and made part of a family unit, which is the key to our democratic pattern, shows that the basic and early training is essential for the continuance of the greatest nations on earth."

Today we are primarily concerned with the part the school plays in the training of youth, especially through the medium of social studies."

Miss Peck reminded that "only to the extent that social studies teachers adapt learning to the needs of youth, within the broad framework of social needs, will learning experiences have meaning and challenge."

She then used a series of headings from recent issues of The Bristol Courier to illustrate how important are the rapidly changing needs of youth, "and how we as teachers must meet the challenge of developing good citizens." The headings covered candidates for public office, crime, juvenile delinquency, mischief night (with fun now changed to malicious mischief); negotiations of a labor union; and firms donating toward the local hospital fund aiding health, "one of life's greatest gifts."

Then there was cited the change being manifest from the truck farming center of the east to a vast industrial center, with the establishment

FLASHES OVER DESERT

The atomic weapons tests that have been in progress at Frenchman's Flat, near Las Vegas, Nev., may not have gone according to schedule—bad weather has caused delays—but they have gone according to plan.

Atomic Energy Commission
scientists let it be known in advance that atomic charges varying in explosive power would be detonated, and observers have reported small and medium-sized explosions.

It is being demonstrated that the United States has acquired impressive mastery of this new weapon. The explosions touched off during the current series have shown that the power of the atom can be used tactically as well as strategically. That is enough to know, for the moment, since this development is as revolutionary in its implications as the atomic bomb that fell on Hiroshima.

The first atomic bomb used in warfare seemed to provide a guarantee that a nation supplied with a few hundred weapons of this type, and the means to deliver them, was safe from attack by a nation without them.

Strategic bombing of cities had never won a war, but the atomic bomb meant that strategic bombing would wreak quick as well as terrible destruction on the nation thus attacked. Consequently the United States increased its investment in atomic energy, hoping to establish a safe lead by the time other nations had learned the "secret."

Alas, Russian spies had already done their work well, and when the first Russian bomb was exploded it became obvious that such a lead might not be enough to deter a possible Russian attack.
The time is coming when the Soviet will have a "strategically significant" stock of strategic A-bombs. What is to hold the reds back from new conquests then?

The answer to that anxious question may be visible in the flashes that have lately been seen
over the Nevada desert.

to deter a possible Russian attack.
The time is coming when the Soviet will have a "strategically
significant" stock of strategic A-
bombs. What is to hold the reds
back from new conquests then?

The answer to that anxious
question may be visible in the
flashes that have lately been seen
over the Nevada desert.

"Our Schools and Democracy" is Title
of Club Message

of a steel plant in the area.

"At the present moment it is really beyond the true comprehension of the majority of our citizens.
It will mean... a vast new system of transportation, practically a complete annihilation of an agricultural area, an opening up of many subsidary industries... whole new communities being built, a governmental problem... too thrilling and exciting to more than hardly mention, for I feel confident that we will within a few decades no longer be small communities with identifying characteristics but rather an integral part of a vast city system."

Miss Peck added: "What a wealth of material a whole years course could be developed from just these seven articles from one issue of our own local paper! It included our complete governmental set-up, executive, legislative and judicial departments, as well as our whole social and economic order, and did you notice that in not one item was it necessary for mention to be made in the change of any of our fundamental basic principles of law and government? What a heritage to give to our youth—that our forefathers 175 years ago could construct such foundations that our independence and democratic form of government would still hold in this rapid moving atomic age!"

"The nature and values of the American way of life provide the best pattern and direction for the whole program of education. It is essential that pupils experience in all teaching a quality that is a living example of the theory and practice of democracy. In order that we may help develop such individuals our social studies must range all the way from the pupil in his community to the wide world, and from the living present far into the past. We should enable young people to form a functional understanding and appreciation of their own heritage... The responsibility rests with the home and the school to help him meet his own personal tasks and problems so that he may satisfy those needs in socially acceptable ways, thus becoming another member of the community, state and nation that we so proudly call the United States of America. Your land... my land.
Your challenge... my challenge.
Your task... my task."

Social studies text books used in Bristol schools were on display.
Several queries of members were answered by Miss Peck.

As part of the program Mrs.
George B. Hood read an article on education.

Another member of Bristol school faculty, Miss Arcenia Guzman, music supervisor of elementary grades, was the vocalist for the afternoon. Accompanied by Miss Eleanor Schetz, Miss Guzman sang "Estrellita" and "Let My Song Fill Your Heart." Also present was superintendent of Bristol Schools, Warren P. Snyder.

Mrs. Robert D. Brooks, club president, called on Mrs. George E. Boswell for prayer for peace. Mrs.
Boswell read a letter from a club-woman friend in Tokyo, Japan, to whom had been sent a scrap book on American life, prepared by the local club. This book is being kept in a Tokyo church for all to see.
The Tokyo club, in turn, sent to the Bristol club a booklet of Japanese scenes.

Mrs. John A. Moyer and Mrs. Albert Dowden, suggested plans for a concert which members were asked to consider. Mrs. David Sheerer, Jr., chairman of the Council of International Clubs, told of two plans to help off-set "propaganda of which the United States is a victim." One is for a card party at the Sheerer home Nov. 12th, at 1:30 p. m. proceeds to be for a CARE package for Korea; the second donation by each member of a nice piece of used clothing to be sent to Korea. The latter will be received the night of the reception for the junior club, Nov. 16th. Those interested in establishing pen-friends in other countries were asked to secure information on same.

Tea was poured by Mrs. Boswell and Mrs. A. Russell Burton.

Miss Barbara A. Neher Is Bride of Mr. Wm. J. Veitch

A veteran of U. S. Navy service during World War II and a young Bristol woman were united in matrimony here this morning. The nuptial ceremony, which was solemnized in St. Mark's R. C. Church, united Miss Barbara A. Neher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Neher, 817 Radcliffe street, and Mr. William J. Veitch, 703 Corson street, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Veitch.

Organist Miss Jacqueline Connelly, Jefferson avenue, accompanied Miss Teresa Lomma, Brook street, as she sang "The Rosary" and "Ave Maria." The Rev. Paul Baird performed the ceremony.

Escorted to the altar at the hour of 10 by her father, the bride was costumed in a tailored gown of white, entailed. Double lapel collar, and pearl rosettes which extended from the front of the neckline to the waist, were features of the satin creation. Her cap, which had center of lace, was edged with white satin with pearl clusters, this holding a finger-tip veil of net. The bridal bouquet was composed of white chrysanthemums, pompons and orchids.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. James Egan, Second avenue; and as bridesmaids, the Misses Norreen Virgulti, Washington street, and Elizabeth Omrod, Jackson street. The trio wore gowns of wheat tone, the bodices being of faille, and skirts of net. Accessories were green. Mrs. Egan carried a bouquet of bronze colored mums and pompons; while those borne by the bridesmaids were yellow mums and pompons.

Men in the bridal party were Mr. John Foster, Trenton, N. J., best man; and Messrs. John Mulhern, Pine street and Edward McCole, Radcliffe street, ushers.

Choice of Mrs. Neher, mother of the bride, for the ceremony, was an aqua dress and black accessories. Mrs. Hannah Peoples, aunt of the bridegroom wore a black ensemble. Both wore lavender orchids.

The reception is scheduled for the Stacy-Trent Hotel, Trenton, N. J.

The bride has selected for the honeymoon trip by airplane to Florida a navy blue suit and accessories, white top; and she will wear a white orchid. The two, upon their return in two weeks, will make their home at 703 Corson street. Both are graduates of Bristol high school. Mrs. Veitch is employed in the office of Kaiser Metal Products, Inc. Mr. Veitch, an employee in the office of Cornwell Chemical Corp., Cornwells Heights, is attending night classes at Rider College, Trenton. The bride's gifts to her attendants were pearl necklaces; and the bridegroom presented his attendants with wallets.

"I know that my redeemer liveth" (Job 19:25)

A man who suffered as Job did and still cried out the above statement is a man who has experienced spiritual sight and with the eye of faith has seen the Lord of Glory. He is one who knows the Shepherd and is known by the Shepherd. He is one who can, when the winds of adversity come, give thanks to God knowing it is His will in Christ Jesus for his life. He is one who anxiously awaits the Glory of Heaven.

The Lord who lay down His life a ransom for many, now liveth to make intercession for His own. In a world that is shaky, what a joy to know the "Rock of Ages" is our Redeemer, Mediator and Intercessor.

stock, as well as pillow receivers. "All of these things are due to generosity of people of the area."

"That there is a good library on the second floor, well equipped, was mentioned. "But this is not accessible to wheel-chair patients or men on crutches. The army has allocated $8,000 to build another library on the first floor, but to equip it well $14,000 is needed."

Need for two more book carts to take books to bed-ridden patients and to the "T. B." ward was mentioned. Books of all types are desired, and there is a need for subscriptions for all popular magazines. Major Verzi informed. The army provided the original subscriptions.

At the hospital there is a "day room" for each ward, equipped with easy chairs, and large windows. "But there is a need for drapes and shades there where the men gather for sociability." Other things desired are additional records and record players, with music of all types wanted.

The hospital has a good pool, plenty of equipment for outdoor sun bathing, and a fine gymnasium, the latter being used also as a remedial "gym" for those listed for prescribed exercise. Lounges, recreational hall for 500, two theatres, service club, snack bars, a cafeteria in addition to the mess hall, were listed as being located at the hospital.

"We do not do very much rehabilitation at the hospital. Long-term patients are the mental ones, and if they are restored to the point where they can return to their families or units we feel that is all we can do for them. Second group of long-term patients are those with tuberculosis. The paraplegics are not there long enough for rehabilitation. They are discharged, when they receive their wheelchairs, to the care of the Veterans Administration."

That the hospital has a good arts and skills building was also mentioned. This is manned mostly by professional volunteers who give of their time, equipment and material. Pottery, rug making, weaving, jewelry making, leathercraft, etc., are taught. Major Verzi told of the photography laboratory run by volunteers and partly maintained by army funds.

Mrs. Edward Pickering, 3d, presided over the business meeting, and called for committee reports. Mrs. Eugene Krammes, county club welfare chairman, spoke on county welfare program for the year, stressing cancer work.

Two new members were introduced, Mrs. Arthur M. Leibowitz and Mrs. Robert Curry. It was announced by Mrs. Lester Ransom that the Girl Scout fund drive is underway. The club donated $50 to this cause.

ST. FRANCIS WINS OVER BORDENTOWN BY SCORE OF 14 TO 2

EDDINGTON, Nov. 3 — St. Francis Vocational School registered a 14-2 win over Bordentown Manual Training School Jayvees, yesterday, on the winners' field.

Bordentown took a 2-0 lead in the first quarter when Clay tackled Eugene Wicks in the end zone as the latter tried to run the ball after taking a pass from center.

In the second quarter, Gus DiBello ran 80 yards for a touchdown but the play was nullified by a penalty. St. Francis then worked the pigskin to the 40 yard line from where DiBello skirted right end for a TD. The extra point was added via a forward pass, Ace McGann to Bob Fox.

It was the same DiBello who set up the second six-pointer. He ran back a punt from mid-field to the 15. On the next try, he knifed his way to the four-yard line from where McGann pounded the line for the score. The conversion point was successful on McGann's line plunge through the center.

Time prevented the Eddington boys from scoring again as Al Douglas broke away on a 22-yard run to make a first on the eight. McGann worked the quarter-back sneak to the one-yard line as the whistle sounded, ending the game.

firm, or its one-time employe, John S. Roberts, who later became the Borough's own engineer and for more than a generation was in charge of most of the borough's property—surely John Smoyer doesn't consider either of these to be malicious "machine" raiders on the community's resources.

Many other prominent Bristol citizens have left their imprint upon the Borough's affairs. For example, the Springs, father and son—Louis Springs, who died 11 years ago after an outstanding record in Council, and his son, Louis C. Springs, for years chairman of Borough Council's water committee. Both these men played a large part in the development of the original water plant and the acquisition of such immensely valuable assets at the Bath Road and Cold Springs water sources.

The list of those who have given of their time and energy in the last fifty years to help build a better Bristol is almost endless. Consider just a few of the names: Charles E. Scott and Thomas Scott, Josiah Owen, Griffith L. Williams, John J. Kilcoyne, George Strausser, Gustav A. Rathke, Armand V. Morris, Doron Green, William K. Fine, Clarence G. Young, Maurice Keating and Edward M. Keating, Jacob C. Schmidt, Sr., Frank B. Satterthwaite, Charles S. Weik, Jr.

Are all these patriotic Bristol citizens, who served Bristol in the days when, unlike now, Councilmen received no pay for their work—are they to be held up by Mr. Smoyer to scorn and contempt as being no more than parts of a ruthless political machine?

Think of some of the others thus violently labelled by Mr. Smoyer—for no purpose other than to try to befuddle newcomers to this area, and get their votes when, if they knew the facts, they wouldn't dream of supporting a public official who so flagrantly misrepresents the record.

There is, for example, the late Burgess Clifford L. Anderson, wealthy head of a one-time prosperous Bristol industry, the patent leather plant which once operated at Jefferson avenue and Beaver Dam road.

Mr. Anderson had the choice of spending his spare time in relaxation and entertainment, or of devoting his energies to the problems of this Borough. For twenty-six years he labored to help make this a better community, and was elected enthusiastically time and again by the Bristol residents.

What a slander for Mr. Smoyer to speak of a "machine" in terms which include Mr. Anderson!

There is more than a bit of irony in the fact that such remarks comes from Mr. Smoyer in reference to an election in the Sixth Ward, since it was during Burgess Anderson's regime that the present sixth ward was developed by the Harriman Shipbuilding company in the First World War, and during his term also that the community was annexed to Bristol under conditions exceptionally advantageous both to Bristol and to Harriman.

What information does John Smoyer have which leads him to make an accusation that puts Burgess Anderson down as being part of a "machine?"

The world has always had a healthy skepticism about those who know of no way to advance themselves except by knocking someone else down.

Mr. Smoyer and his associates have won two elections in Bristol—1947 and 1949—on purely destructive criticism of their predecessors in office. Next Tuesday his constituents in the Sixth Ward certainly owe it to themselves to take stock both of his record and his campaigns.

His record is one of quarrelsome failure. He has furnished council with neither unity nor leadership. His record is so bad, in fact, that he has had to scurry about frantically seeking an alibi for it, and that is where this crack came from about the so-called "Grundy machine" having ruined the Borough.

His campaign for re-election has offered substantially nothing except bad-tempered abuse on a wholesale basis of whatever took place before he came to power. He has slandered half a century's civic-minded men and women of this community in his remarks, and he also had libeled the Borough of Bristol, publicly, before the readers of one of the principal newspapers in Philadelphia, by asserting that this Borough is unable to meet its proper responsibilities in the new era of growth commencing in Lower Bucks County.

We submit that there is nothing much the matter with Bristol which a change in leadership in Borough Council won't remedy.

Respectfully we suggest that the good citizens of the Sixth Ward insure such a change by voting John Smoyer out of office next Tuesday.

Bucks County's Congressman

with the regular election next Tuesday.

But the fact that no opposition shows up on the ballot is no reason for the voters to take any chances.

There is just one way to be entirely certain that Mr. King will be elected and thus be the first Congressman from this area in eighteen years.

That is to make it your business to go to the polls next Tuesday, and when you do, to vote straight Republican, thereby insuring Mr. King a tremendous vote of confidence, as well as guaranteeing his election.

You can vote for Mr. King, and for all other Republicans on the ballot, by making a single cross on the ballot.

Merely find the word Republican where it appears on the ballot in heavy type, and put an "X" after it, thus:
